

Testimonials

Danielle Turnbull is an active listener, she is compassionate, strong and caring, and a complete professional. Dedicated to helping people to be their best selves, Danielle always goes above and beyond to help her clients find inner strength to benefit all aspects of their life.

I have benefited from Danielle's counsel over a number of years and I cannot recommend her more highly. Danielle has been a wonderful support to me, and she has certainly helped me to get through a range of difficult moments in my life, and come out the other side feeling empowered and more resilient. I am so grateful to have met Danielle.

Dani is AMAZING! Her listening skills and questioning techniques are second to none. She truly heard what I needed to work through and made me feel completely comfortable to open up to explore my own answers. Thank you for bringing your calm and grounded nature to our session, it's just what I needed to help me find clarity!

Sarah, Auckland New Zealand

Danni is truly a wise soul. Her beautiful wisdom has guided me towards much need clarity around my situation and that has allowed me to navigate my life with more ease. She cuts through the white noise and sees clearly what needs to be shifted. I've found Danni easy to talk to, down to earth, accepting, non-judgmental, and extremely motivating. I'd highly recommend her services for anyone going through a tough time who needs some support and direction.

Danielle has helped me numerous times over the years with various life situations. She has assisted me with structuring my thought patterns, thus achieving goals and mental clarity. She is both empathetic and compassionate and handles all situations in an entirely professional manner. Danielle is naturally gifted in her life coaching skills and I'm sure many people will benefit from seeing her.

Danni has that really rare combination of experience and intuition which results in her ability to know just what to say, how to say it, and importantly, when to say it. This combination of wisdom and 'timing' can mean the difference between me idling or taking action in the direction I know deep down I want to go in.

Meegan, Christchurch New Zealand

Danielle is brilliant in her coaching skills and life experience. She asked questions to cultivate my true values and supported me to see my own strength. She is fun and down to the earth. I really enjoyed working with her, and I am sure you will too!

I highly recommend Danielle for anyone that is experiencing challenges in their life, and needs a strong support. She is caring, kind, a great listener and really present. When I was going through my divorce she was a light that helped me get through the darker patches, ever present and considered in her guidance. She has the tools and experience to help you bring forward your best self, and to feel empowered through any struggles you may face.

Dani has been a pleasure to work with. She has an infectious drive and motivation and "on to it ness" that is delightful. Participants of the course that she co-facilitated at the Women's Centre describe her as "warm, friendly, helpful kind, thoughtful and FANTASTIC." We feel very privileged to be working with her.

I had been dreaming about starting my own business for a number of years, but had long been experiencing both doubt in my own abilities to make it happen and fear of it failing if it finally got off the ground. In working in Danielle, she helped me to recognise that everything I needed to make my business a success was already inside of me, and gave me the tools I need to help turn down the doubt and fear and make my dream a reality.

Scott P, Christchurch

Danielle has become a colleague and co-facilitator with me facilitating a group for women who are building a new life after separation. She is passionate about women finding their own strength and listening to their inner wisdom. As a co-facilitator, Danielle has much to offer and is a steady rock for the group process. I look forward to continuing to work with Danielle.
